Yellow warning
Snow & Ice

Between 20:00 Thu 6 Jan 2022 and
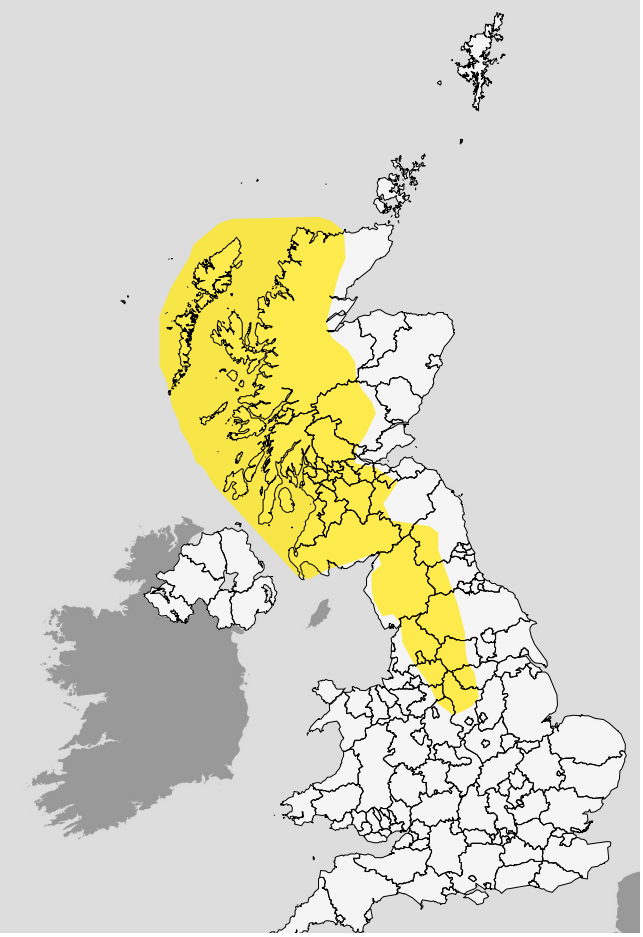
12:00 Fri 7 Jan 2022



Frequent sleet, hail and snow showers may lead to some disruption to travel during Thursday night and Friday morning.

What to expect

- Travel delays on roads with a small chance of some stranded vehicles and passengers, along with delayed or cancelled rail and air travel
- There is a small chance that power cuts will occur and other services, such as mobile phone coverage, may be affected
- There is a slight chance that some rural communities could become cut off
- Probably icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths

Further details

Frequent wintry showers arriving from the west during Thursday evening and overnight are likely to lead to a fresh covering of snow for areas above 100-200m (mainly 2-5 cm, but locally 5-10 cm above 200 m and as much as 15 cm over the highest ground where showers are most frequent). Falling snow below this level may cause some temporary slushy accumulations which then may freeze and cause icy patches where skies remain clear for long enough.

Winds will be gusty around heavier showers and there is also a risk of lightning strikes from isolated thunderstorms in some coastal districts.
